

Short Bio

Dr. Amir Konigsberg is a technology entrepreneur that has led innovation in the Search, e-commerce, neurotechnology, and automotive sectors. In 2014 Amir co-founded Twiggle, a company pioneering the use of artificial intelligence in search and retail. Prior to this, Amir worked on human machine interfaces for autonomous vehicles at General Motors. Earlier on he was one of the founding members of Google's operations in Israel, and Vice President at mySupermarket.com. Amir is currently President of Twiggle, and serves on several advisory boards of deep technology companies, including Allegro.Ai, a company pioneering the use of deep learning for the automotive sector. He is also part of the leadership team of Israel Brain Technologies. Amir holds a PhD in Rationality and Interactive Decision Making from the Hebrew University and Princeton University. He is the author of more than 25 patents and is a regular speaker on topics relating to AI. In 2017 Amir was named one of israel's 40 under 40, by Globes.