

Short Bio

Dorit Sokolov, Managing Director, aMoon Fund

Dorit Sokolov is a Managing Director at aMoon. She is a medical technology executive with extensive experience in Innovation, Investments, Business Development and Strategy.

Dorit previously worked with Amgen, scouting globally for new platforms, technologies and open innovation capabilities with a focus on digital health, diagnostics, drug formulations, and devices. Before Amgen, Dorit co-founded Sanara Ventures (Philips Healthcare and Teva Pharmaceuticals Joint Technology Incubator), worked as a Principal with Evergreen Venture Partners, focusing on Life Sciences investments in Israel and held VP Business Development positions with few medical technology startups (e.g., ColBar LifeScience which was acquired by J&J). Previously, she worked as a consultant with McKinsey & company's Pharmaceutical & Medical Products Practice in the US and Israel. Dorit is a pharmacist with a B.Pharm degree from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem and an MBA from Kellogg School of Management, Northwestern University.